Donelan of North Lima street were among the thousands of physicians and their wives who attended the American Medical Association Convention held in San Francisco last week. Zoning Plan Shot Back To Planners

Woman's Club Joins Protest Against Reduction In Size Of Business Area

Its master plan for Sierra Madre's new zoning ordinance will bounce back into the lap of the planning commission when it meets Monday evening.

Submitted to the city council at its meeting Wednesday, that body without considering the plan, voted to return it to the planning commission with instructions to interview all the property holders on East Sierra Madre Blvd., between Hermosa and Lima streets and get their reaction in the shape of protests or approval to the tentative plan to transfer this area from business to residential classification.

Four affected property holders had filed protests against this proposed curtailment of the business zone, but none had voiced their approval.

At a meeting of the Woman's Club Wednesday, petitions protesting the proposed plan were circulated for signature and the president was authorized to appoint a committee of three to present the protest to the Planning Commission. The club property is in the affected area.

J. A. Kramer, owner of a date packing plant at Highland and Mountain Trail which is now being enlarged, sent a letter of protest to the council. Under the old zoning ordinance his property was in the industrial district. Under the proposed plan he would be in the multiple dwelling zone. The Council advised him to take his protest to Monday's planning commission meeting.

Mapha Club Installs Officers; Plans For Tomorrow's Dance

A green and white color scheme will be carried out at the annual formal dance of the Mapha Club to be held Saturday evening at the Arcadia Woman's clubhouse. Herbert Hassell and his orchestra from Los Angeles have been secured to provide the music.

Details for the party were arranged at a meeting held Wednesday night at the home of Miss Cynthia Hull, 540 West Montecito avenue. A barbecue supper and badminton party preceded the business meeting. New officers installed at that time were Mrs. Eleanor Harper, president; Miss Marian Friske, secretary, and Mrs. Marjorie Black, treasurer.

Sierra Madre members of this social club composed of young women from the various foothill cities include Mrs. Marjorie Black, Miss Eleanor Phillips, Miss Frances Olds, Miss Marianne Daily, Miss Sarah Jane Griebner, Mrs. Treva Scott Tarr, Miss Genelle Paschall and Miss Hull.

Many Honors For Local Graduates

Local Students Steal The Show In Wilson's Closing Activities

Sierra Madre students at Wilson Junior High school all but stole the show at the pre-graduation activities last week. They certainly ran away with the top honors in every direction. Miss Barbara Elinor Gerschler, of Santa Anita Court, and Lorne Pratt, president of the graduating class, blazed the way.

Miss Gerschler was the only graduate who received the gold scholarship pin conferred upon graduates who attain the scholarship class in seven out of eight semesters. She accomplished the very unusual feat of making the class seven times out of seven semesters, completing her course in the seven semesters. She was, of course, among the members of her class honored for having won at least 120 merits a semester, several other Sierra Madreans being similarly honored. Miss Gerschler graduated from the Sierra Madre grade school three and one-half years ago and the many honors that came to her brought joy to members of the local teaching staff.

Lorne Pratt received the Kiwanis award as the most outstanding student in athletics, scholarship, citizenship, character and high contributions to school leadership. During his four years at Wilson he held the offices of president of the 4H club, president of the Hi-Y, as commissioner of school safety and president of the senior class.

Other Sierra Madre students receiving the merit awards were Anna Sue Adwell, Louise Brook, Lorne Pratt and Betty Seyler.

In addition to Sierra Madre students mentioned in last week's NEWS as receiving honors and letters for their athletic activities were Donald Miller and Jim Gingrich, who received letters for baseball.

Orchardists See Answer To Prayer

Marvelous Instrument Demonstrated In Sierra Madre Citrus Grove

A phenomenal instrument was demonstrated between sunset Saturday and dawn Sunday in the East Orange Grove avenue citrus orchard of City Treasurer Carl J. Pegler. The mechanism reads precise "spot" temperatures at a distance, and appears to be the answer to the California orchardist's prayer in the long fight against the frost scourge.

Tests were conducted to prove the efficacy of a new type of smokeless heater, invented by C. H. S. Littleton, pioneer orchardist and inventor who lives in Hermosa Beach. The heating pot, burning the cheapest variety of sludge oil, is of the non-distillation type, and was shown to develop up to four times the actual heat of several standard brands of heater tested.

The temperature instrument, called simply a radiation pyrometer by its Cal-Tech inventor, Dr. John Strong, looks like a queer combination of camera and telescope. Its rock-salt lens gathers in the infra-red light rays emanating from an object, and everything but the heat element is then filtered out. The heat wave strikes a sensitive thermometer, and transformed into electrical current, is measured by a galvanometer.

At a distance of twenty feet the temperature of a lemon was found to raise ten degrees in an hour's time, while Littleton's heater was in operation. The orchard ground area in any given spot, the fruit on the individual tree, the smokestack of the heater—all were measured in a manner never before thought possible.

Although no such predictions were made by Dr. Strong, it appears likely that the pyrometer can also be of much value in temperature reading during actual nights of frost fighting, in the interests of more economical and accurate heater regulation.

Travelers Return; Cover 9,600 Miles; Visit Old Home

Revisiting the scenes of his childhood after an absence of 24 years was the pleasant experience of Eric S. Slater, 438 East Montecito avenue, and Mrs. Slater, who have returned from a trip covering 9,600 miles.

The Slaters took the train to Detroit, then drove through the Great Lakes region, up to Newport, Vermont, where Mr. Slater took another look at the old schoolhouse he attended, and Mrs. Slater visited her grandparents. The eastern states were thoroughly covered by the travelers as far south as Virginia. On their way home they visited Yellowstone National Park.

A wedding of unusual charm and beauty was solemnized at the Church of the Ascension Saturday night by Dean Arnold Bode, at which Miss Virginia Predle of Virginia and Laurence Sadeck of Pasadena were united in marriage.

The bride visited the late Miss Ida Munsell at the "Italia Mia" estate of Miss Thomasella Graham two years ago, and never forgot the beauty of the mountain village and the quaint Episcopal church, so she wanted to be married here. She wore her great-grandmother's wedding gown.

Vacation School Is Organized Like A City Government

Enrollment at the Vacation Church School of the Congregational Church went above ninety yesterday. The school will be on the air for the next four Saturdays when C. W. Kinnear, its superintendent, will use in the "Live and Help Live" broadcast the theme of the school "What Makes Men and Women Great." The broadcast will be at 10:30 each Saturday morning over KFVD.

Greatest number of pupils are in the upper division. Miss Gladys Black has charge of the kindergarten and primary groups and is assisted in her work by Marjorie Pickett, Nellie Gonzales and Margaret Starbuck.

Assisting Mr. Kinnear in the upper division are Howard Miller, Mario Uriarte, George Shipway, Margarita Sandoval, Ann Starbuck and Regina Rivera. The upper division is organized like a city government. Each group elects a member to the school council. Council members elect a mayor. Officers hold office for one week, and one of their duties is to plan and conduct the program for Family Night each Wednesday night. The result of the first election made Goodrich Simmons, mayor; members of the school council, Nathan Tarr, Joe Casterano, Joan Malaby, Lela Pickett, Rowena Shipway and Jack Champlin.

Roy Pickett, Dr. R. C. Simpson and Charles B. Klunk are delegates to the convention. With their wives they leave for the Bay City this afternoon.

AGREEMENTS MAY OPEN WAY TO COMPROMISE WATER SUIT

Though Pasadena made no direct offer to compromise its water suit against this and other San Gabriel valley cities during a conference Friday between its attorneys and those of the cities named as defendants in the suit, attorneys for the various municipalities believed the way had been paved for ultimate compromise.

All the cities affected agreed to a stipulation that further use by Pasadena of water from its San Gabriel canyon dam and consequent failure to pump from the underground basin water to which it is entitled would not in any way bring into question its right to the use of water from

Chess Carnival To Include Women's Tournament

Two seven year old boys, John L. Loughborough and Karl Foggerlund, of Los Angeles, both excellent chess players, will be at City Park Saturday to participate in the ninth annual Morphy Day chess carnival. A match will be arranged between them.

Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards will assist Mrs. D. S. Houghton in arranging the ladies' tourney which will be held in the afternoon.

The youngsters are receiving instruction from a competent staff, inasmuch as the 19 leaders are school teachers or are studying to be teachers.

F. W. Schlalos, Canyon Resident, Found Dead In Bed

Frederick William Schlalos, aged 67 years, long time Canyon Park resident and property owner, died in his sleep at his home, 546 Sturtevant Drive, early Monday morning. He had apparently been in good health on retiring Sunday evening and his death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Schlalos was born in Varel, Germany, April 22, 1871. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Therese Schlalos; a daughter, Clara, of Sierra Madre; two sisters, Mrs. Louise Thege, Manhattan Beach, and Mrs. Marie Gloystein of Kiel, Germany; two brothers, John, Phoenix, Ariz., and Karl of Kiel, Germany.

City Compromises Gierlich Suit For $2250

A compromise has been effected in the suit of former City Engineer Henry Gierlich against the city for $14,275, claimed as fees for services rendered by him in the Central avenue extension plans he drew but which were never used. The services were rendered prior to 1932. City Council Wednesday voted Mr. Gierlich, and the Monrovia bank acting as assignee, $2,250 to wipe the claim off the books and dismiss the suit, which has been pending for three years.

Visitors From War Torn China Spend Sunday Here

Shu-ming T. Liu, president of Cheelo University, Tsinan, China, and Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Lair, treasurer of the university, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Evans, 387 West Montecito avenue, Sunday.

Miss Florence Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evans, is a member of the nursing staff at the institution.

The visitors have been spending their furlough in this country and plan to sail soon for the Orient. Mrs. Lair, due to the wretched conditions in the far East, has decided to remain in Pasadena with her son and daughter.

A resident of the Chinese city since 1914, Dr. Lair has been through three revolutions and can tell of harrowing experiences endured when the university was in close firing range.

License For Vine Garden Is Held Up

Court Action Hinted—New Difficulty Faced By City Planners and Council

Right of the Wistaria Vine Garden management to operate a tea room or serve food to the public, was questioned before the City Council Wednesday evening and the matter may reach the courts.

Police Chief McMillan sent a letter to the Council saying application for a business license had been made by the Vine management. He had refused to issue a license because the old city zoning ordinance which prohibited any business in the Gardens area had not been declared invalid. City Attorney Dunn advised the Council that he had submitted a written opinion to the Council declaring the ordinance to be invalid. There being no ordinance prohibiting issuance of a license in the area in which the Gardens are located, he could not see, he said, that the Council could well refuse to issue one.

Councilman Paul Carter inquired whether, inasmuch as a new zoning ordinance would shortly be enacted, action on the application for a license could not be held up until that time.

F. D. R. Moore informed the Council that deferring issuance of a license might be inimical to the interest of his client, Mrs. Ida Lawless, owner of the Gardens property. She had made a heavy investment in the Gardens, he said, and if it is jeopardized it would be his duty as her attorney to advise that mandamus proceedings be resorted to. "And I think your attorney will tell you what the result of such proceedings must be," said Mr. Moore.

Mrs. Lawless told the council that the Wistaria Vine property had been operated as at present for more than 20 years—long before there was any zoning law at all. She had made three applications for a business license, she said, and in each instance her check had been returned and she was informed there was no necessity for her to procure a license. Her present application calls for a license to operate a "botanical garden and tea room."

The council voted to defer action until further progress has been made in drafting a new zoning ordinance. It had been expected the question of permitting year-around operation of a restaurant in connection with the Gardens would be a controversial subject in the adoption of an ordinance.

Noted Woman Will Appear At Wistaria Vine Gardens

"Few these days are equipped to appear as composers, pianists, dramatic readers, poets and lecturers, but Grace Bush is perfectly at ease in all these fields. She plays exquisitely," states "Music News," of Chicago, about the musician who will headline in her celebrated travogue, "Musical Landscapes," at the monthly meeting of the Foothill Poets next Thursday evening, June 30, at the Wistaria Vine Gardens, with Mrs. W. J. Lawless, a member of the organization's board of governors, as hostess. A buffet supper will start the festivities at 6:30. The meeting itself starts at 8 o'clock and is open to the public, and free.

Sierra Madreans are urged by the Foothill Poets to take advantage of this delightfully exquisite and unique cultural treat with its pictures in words and music of England, France, Italy and America which this organization is privileged to present. Grace Bush recently won the Allied Arts Contest prize for the best art song classic. She has written two books. Moreover, she has appeared before many of the Southland's most distinguished audiences. "Always joyous and vital," is how Louise Ward Watkins has described her platform presence.

First Split In Council Over Gas

Adopts Plan To Pass Up Local Service Stations By Vote Of Three To Two

By a vote of three-to-two, the city council Wednesday ordered construction of gasoline tanks and a greasing rack at the city's water plant and authorized the signing of contracts for purchase of gasoline and grease for city owned motor apparatus direct from the oil companies.

It was the first division in the new council on any subject since it assumed control of the city's affairs April 18. Mayor Schiltz and Councilman John Froehlich voted "no" on the proposal to take the gasoline business away from the local service stations.

Mayor Schiltz inquired into the cost of installing necessary equipment to put the new plan into operation and expressed doubt that it would result in any substantial saving. Councilman Tom Schwartz said cost of equipment and installation would not exceed $200, with the probability that $60 a month would be saved.

His motion to contract directly with the oil companies provided that these contracts shall be with companies now represented by local service stations. The contracts will be for three-month periods with each of the companies, the business to be rotated, as it has been between the service station operators.

FORKS WERE TABOO AT THIS DINNER PARTY

A committee consisting of T. O. Vaughn, Gordon Brooks and Bertram Schultze, members of Miss Nola Johnstone's Bible class for married couples of the Bethany church, gave the class a real surprise dinner June 14.

Anticipating a dignified dinner party, the ladies arrived in all their finery. To their astonishment, instead of immaculate linen covered the five tables which and gleaming silver, funny papers were set for 80 guests. A soon and knife apiece were permitted, but forks were taboo. The stunned guests were served a delicious supper.

Women of the class have 12 months to ponder on the theme of a return dinner.

Woman's Club Notes

A proposal to sponsor monthly free entertainments in the city park during the summer months was adopted at Wednesday's meeting of the Sierra Madre Jack Buchan rendered a number of baritone solos, many of them Scotch, with his usual fine Scotch accent and mellow, resonant voice. Mrs. Cain accompanied him at the piano.

Mrs. Pearl Virginia Steinberger took charge of the installation of officers for the new year with her usual charm and remarks about the duty of each officer and presented sweet pea corsages to each.

Following a dainty cafeteria luncheon, Mrs. Steinberger read one of Paul Engel's patriotic poems reminiscent of early American life.

Officers for the coming year are, Mrs. Al S. Miller, president; Mrs. A. D. Cain, first vice-president; Mrs. J. Andrew Hall, recording secretary; Mrs. Frances Brain, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Helen Sandage, treasurer; Mrs. Sally Webster, Mrs. William Lees, Mrs. Leland Fogg, Miss Clara Sykes, Mrs. F. L. C. Roess, Mrs. Al Miller and Mrs. Myrna Cant, executive board members, Woman's Club.

Theme At Tea Of Women's Society

"Character Building Organizations for Girls and Young Women" was the topic of the program at a meeting of the Women's Society of the Congregational church Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. O. Pritchard. Mrs. B. L. Hinkley was in charge. Mrs. Florence Davies, business and industrial girls secretary of the Pasadena YWCA and Miss Eva Hancock, executive secretary of the Pasadena Camp Fire Girls' council, were guest speakers.

The remainder of the program was held in the Pritchard garden under the 600 year old live oak tree which covers 125 feet. Tea was served to the 70 guests by the Misses Bacon and Gerschler. A special treat was given by Miss Counce who sang two songs, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "La Golondrina," accompanying herself at the harp.

Sixty Set Pieces
At Fireworks Show
In Rose Bowl

Pasadena firemen for their 14th annual Rose Bowl professional four-ring circus and fireworks show on the evening of the Fourth of July this year are expending more than ever before in the purchase of entertainment for the thousands who attend.

There are 60 separate groups in the fireworks program against the 48 of last year and of the 60, ten are gigantic set pieces. One is an outstanding novelty number because this is the Golden Anniversary of the Tournament of Roses. It is a gigantic fireworks replica of a Tournament float and this single number cost almost as much as an actual top flight float would cost for New Year's Day.

THIS FISH STORY

A true fish story that will make all good fishermen green with envy comes from Mr. and Mrs. D. Abel of 311 E. Deadline Nears In Youth Aid Drive
Of Kiwanians

Eager boys were guests of their dads and other Kiwanians at the Tuesday luncheon meeting, officially designated as "Fathers and Sons Day." Members who had no sons of their own had to beg, borrow or steal a boy for the occasion to avoid paying a penalty.

McDonald & O'Boyle, Chevrolet distributors, supplied moving pictures showing the various steps in the construction of motor cars. A cartoon completed the program, much to the enjoyment of the 23 boys present.

The Kiwanis community drive for support of local youth organizations now totals $416.00, it was reported at the meeting. Next Tuesday is the deadline for all contributions and cards. A fine will be imposed on all who fail to turn in cards with some report by that date.

Charles E. Klunk was awarded a pin in recognition of ten years of perfect attendance at the Kiwanis club meetings.

LOCAL FOLKS STUDY
TECHNOCRACY

A group of people interested in the study of Technocracy met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Rose Snell, 419 East Highland avenue. These meetings will be held at 7:45 each Tuesday night at the Snell home, until further notice. Anyone interested in the subject is invited to attend.

A. L. A. Activities

Chairmen of the 18th district met under a shady oak in the county park in Arcadia to hand in their yearly reports. Attending from Sierra Madre were Mesdames B. S. Stinman, R. H. Pickett, and G. R. Lovejoy.

Legion men and their wives were pleasantly surprised to find themselves drawing numbers to determine the winner of a cake. The evening was spent in having a general good time. President Florence Jensen was very proud of the resume of the units activities this year, including the financial report.

We miss our treasurer, Maybelle Barker who is visiting back in Ohio. Leila Embree leaves the first of July for Nebraska. Nomination of next year's officers will feature our next meeting, July 14th.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of The Boys

DESPITE the fact that Chief Richards warned him not to burn the weeds on his lot, a certain man waited until the chief was out of sight and took a chance. The result was that he had a bigger fire on his hands than he could handle and he was very glad to have help from the firemen. Can you blame the Chief if he gets "hard-boiled" once in a while.

All may seem calm and still, but unless everything is arranged for safe burning, it does not pay to risk lighting a large lot that is covered with dry weeds and grass. Sudden wind can arise at any time, as has been experienced in this city, and at which time sparks from your fire may be the cause of a fire elsewhere hours later. Take the Fire Chief's advice!

It looks as though the firemen of the city will all stay at home over the coming Fourth of July. In order that the city be well protected over this great holiday, when there is much danger of fire, the firemen have been holding a picnic within the city limits. All the local men who can attend this, so they can immediately answer alarms.

Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

IT TURNED out to be a Flicker—a Golden Flicker, as it is sometimes called. Wrongly or rightly doesn't matter in the present case. The bird did have flecks of gold scattered through the woody brown of its wings. As well as that pitiful splotch of red where one of its wings was hurt. A young bird, just full grown—still with a touch of the fledgling down on the top of its head; with here also a hint of gold—the hint of a princeling crown—as if this creature might not have been, after all, the wild bird it was meant for but in reality was some kingly child the victim of a witch.

MRS. SHIPPEY had called us up. One of her boys had found the bird fluttering through a field unable to fly and had brought it home. Did we have a cage?—where she might keep it safe from cats?—until perhaps it should be able to fly again? Once she had helped, like that, a mocking-bird with a broken wing, to pull through—to health and freedom. So we hustled an old cage down out of the attic and into the back of our car. Shouting directions. Terribly excited. Tuffy biting our legs. Tuffy's our half-bred pup. And just to save time we took him along. This was an ambulance call.

BIGGER than a mocking-bird. Bigger than a jay. But with a head shaped something like a jay's. A powerful beak. The young flicker had something of the calm and challenging courage of an armored knight—or that of all unarmed innocence. Eyes of a liquid black light—they wiped humor from your heart as they looked at you. Giving you a thrill—as if you found yourself suddenly in the presence of something eerie, awesome, very old. Frank Shippey held the bird while his mother explained. He did this with his own gift of the ancient wisdom. The Centaur colt, touselled and fair in the sun; closer to this feathered pal of a pre-human Golden Age than his elders.

WELL, we took the bird, the young Centaur, the mongrel pup, and ourselves, all down to the City Hall. To find out if this town of ours had a service of any kind for wounded birds. We pay a lot of special taxes (license-fees) for our dogs. Or, let's say, our dogs pay heavily. Do they—or their fellows of the Animal Kingdom—get something in return? Or do we human creatures grab it all? Ah, wurr! We'll not go into that. Although Chief McMillan and everyone else around the City Hall was sympathetic. We drove away at last—outward-bound—for Monrovia, or Arcadia, or Pasadena, where, perhaps—when... Oh, not so fast! And why so discouraged? A God-sent inspiration!

AN old friend. Skilled beyond anyone we ever knew in the ways and needs of all furred and feathered things. Yes, and of the sons of Adam, too. Right here in Sierra Madre. But so retiring, self-obliterative, that he only emerges—so to speak—at the moment of your need. Which seems to be the way with—well, say it with all reverence—Himself the Maker of us All, of both bird and man. And this old friend, whom—and this, we thought, was also characteristic of him—we found at home just when he was wanted; this old friend took the bird into his strong and tender hands. No, the wing wasn't broken. Only the tendons were torn, and the skin broken. See?

The WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONAL

by MAX BERNES

Federal Appointments

How are federal appointments made?

In keeping with giving the executive power to the President, our Constitution provides that he shall appoint ambassadors, judges and other officers "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

The concurrence of the Senate was designed to reject unfit nominees and to prevent the filling of offices with accomplices and tools of an executive inclined to be autocratic.

The Senate, as a matter of course, usually confirms diplomatic and cabinet appointments submitted by the President, but often differs with the President regarding appointments of judges of the Supreme Court and other federal officers.

In theory the President also appoints federal officers in the states such as district judges, postmasters, revenue collectors and others. However, as a matter of practical politics, the men for such positions are selected or at least recommended by the Senators in each state. The Senators, because they know local conditions and because they want to dispense patronage, desire to be consulted or to name the nominees. Senators from other states want the same privilege in their states and so agree with their colleagues. As all appointments must be "confirmed by the Senate," the President yields. Such appointments, although they are made by the President, are actually, in most such cases, made by the Senators.

A lot of Californians, in both Washington and in their home state, will vouch for the truth of an observation by Mrs. Louise Ward Watkins, prominent clubwoman and Republican leader. "In California," she said, "members of state societies still love their home states—but congratulate themselves on living in California. But in Washington, the California society meets once a month to wail and to mourn because they no longer live in California."

Since the Federal kidnapping statute was passed five years ago this week, there have been no less than 116 kidnappings. Apparently the threat of penalty is not enough. Of those 116 kidnappings, 113 have been solved, and over 250 culprits have been brought to justice and given stiff punishments, ranging from death to life imprisonment and long prison terms. Apparently the infliction of penalties is still not enough. The great task facing American parents, educators, and criminologists, is to discover effective preventives for crime—before it takes place.

Adversity makes strange bedfellows. The worst drought in generations has swept across Europe. Italy, the Central European and Balkan states are in great need of wheat. Where there is drought there is not apt to be war, for an army still marches on its stomach, even though it may —there at the shoulder. And sure he'd be able to fly again.

SO he poured lime-water over the wound. That was to cleanse it. While the bird seemed to think... Do you know what the bird seemed to think? It was so young. So trustful. So wise. Oh, with a wisdom that was, as you might say, dateless. A wisdom that went away back to a time when time itself was young—and likewise still flecked with gold—as with the dust of the place it came from. Well, you would have sworn—you would have, that is, if you'd been there and seen it and had an ounce of imagination; sworn that the young flicker itself, the prince be-switched, believed itself to be—safe back in the Hands of Its Royal Father again.

WRONGLY or rightly—doesn't seem to matter in the present case. But often and often we do remember a sermon Dean Bode preached. One time. It was long ago. How, after all, even the Lord has no hands, here on earth, unless these be your own. No feet. No voice—no voice but yours, that is, for all the little things—the friendly little—yes, and the necessary—things, of every day, like: Hello, Hop in. Cheer up, and—"Sure, he'll be all right. He'll fly again!"

Father Sage Says:
Fault-finders do not improve the world; they only make it seem worse than it really is.

Case and Comment

By Charles B. Shoualter

(Editor's Note: The opinions expressed herein are those of Mr. Shoualter and do not necessarily reflect the attitude or opinions of THE NEWS.)

A READER has sent in a communication severely criticizing our comments and telling us a variety of things we didn't know. In language much more forcible than polite—in fact, language that would scarcely pass in cultured circles—he informs us we are a nut; that we are illiterate; that we use faulty grammar. To the foregoing we pleaded guilty, to avoid argument. But he adds another indictment, we think should be examined and explored just a bit, and it is that we are "an apologist for the plunderbund."

Of course our correspondent would not possess the capacity to recognize a plunderbund if he saw one. The idea is not original with him. He acquired it from some demagogue busily engaged in stirring class hatred, and is typical of the mental attitude of far too many citizens of the United States today.

The New Deal, with its class warfare, with its politically shameful easy money, has led the relatively unsuccessful to look upon all who make an honest income as members of the so-called plunderbund. And yet it is these same income makers, who have earned vast sums and saved and invested, and managed successfully, and ventured into new enterprises with vision and courage and ceaseless hard work—these are the ones who have paid for and established and supported our vast educational system of schools and colleges and universities, our hospitals, our libraries, our art centers, our laboratories, our great business enterprises that furnish work and income for millions.

No, these are not plunderers. The real plunderers are those who want, or expect, or get something for nothing. Those who believe that society—meaning those who work—owes them a living. Those who are anxious to eat, but unwilling to work.

Also the real plunderers of the nation's resources include the President and his rubber stamp Congress.

For example, examine some figures from the recently expired Congress. They proclaim a $2,500,000,000 relief bill, but it is actually three billion higher. The details are as follows: For relief to February 28, 1939, $1,714,905,000. For relief from February 28, 1939 to July 1, 1939, $859,000,000. For expansion of credit, $1,500,000,000. For public works, $1,500,000,000.

Senator Byrd of Virginia pointed out that this $5,000,000,000 is pyramided on the regular budget, making a total authorized disbursement for spending and lending in the fiscal year 1939 of twelve and one-half billion dollars. This is by far the largest peacetime expenditure on record, and means that the deficit for next year will exceed $5,000,000,000, beating all records for deficits.

This means that on July 1, 1939 the national debt will be in excess of $43,000,000,000, which with five and one-half billion dollars guaranteed obligations issued by government corporations will make a total debt of $48,500,000,000.

More than half of this incredible sum has been wasted on assinine experiments and in playing politics. The policies followed in its use and misuse have played havoc with business and industry and wrought incalculable harm to the earning capacity of the Nation. The continued spending only adds more and more people to the class of ineffective, and in the same ratio decreases the taxpaying capacity of the earning class.

Any one able to count up to ten should be able to figure out that this can't last, that we are nearing the end of this type of insanity. We can already see the bottom of the sock. The national credit is bound to crack under the strain of borrowing—and that, soon. Then a lot of people will work or starve.

No, we do not apologize for the plunderbund. Those whom our correspondent would call plunderers, need no apology. Those whom we call the real plunderers, deserve none.

Both amateur and professional wreckers, marching under the banner of a false liberalism, are creating the impression, none too subtly, that a man who rises above the mass in any field of human effort other than destruction, owes his success either to illegal methods, to exploitation of his less fortunate fellows, or to highly reprehensible and dishonest behavior of some sort.

Cries of privilege favoritism and fraud fan the spark of envy in the hearts of the relatively unsuccessful. Banker, professor, legislator, bureaucrat, individualist, the police and the courts, the pulpit and the platform, all are looked upon with suspicion.

To some in the world this is a desirable state of affairs. It parallels the background against which Communism came to power in Russia and that paralysis of action which brought nazism to Germany. But for those who believe in democratic institutions, nothing is more alarming than the rapid growth of mistrust and intolerance within our National borders.

Actual Size Of Radio Audiences Shown By Survey Disappoints Broadcasters

Only 25 percent of all radio receiving sets are in operation at any given time, and even at peak periods listener-reception never rises above 50 per cent of the number of radios in a given area, it was revealed by a just completed survey of the Los Angeles radio audience.

Manufacturers, industrialists and advertising men were quick to attach paramount importance to the survey, made in an area which, according to radio executives, is the only one in the world where the audience-reaction and number of listeners is automatically recorded.

The survey system used in the Los Angeles area involves 29,000 direct telephone interviews concentrated in the market for a period of one week each month. Calls are put through every 15 minutes for 13 hours each day, the cost of the survey being borne by individual radio stations and national networks.

To secure 29,000 actual interviews, the surveyors found it necessary to make 68,000 telephone calls. Starting at 8:15 a.m. and ending at 10 p.m., the survey shows the total number of listeners for the day, the number of listeners to any station during a definite period, and the number of listeners for each 15 minute period over the entire area.

When compared to the number of receiving sets in the section, the survey revealed that the average number of sets in operation during the entire week was but 25 per cent of the total.

In a typical week, those conducting the study of the market found that peak reception came at 9 p.m. Sunday. Poorest day for listeners to programs was given as Saturday. Peak reception was recorded between 8 and 9 p.m. on each day of the survey.

With these facts before them a re-adjustment of concepts regarding radio began throughout the advertising field. Executives pointed out that obviously it was impossible for everyone to secure time at the peak periods, and that the low number of radio recording reception at most of the other times of the day did not warrant huge talent, time, and program cost. They also pointed out that other media in the advertising field now that proper and conclusive figures on radio audience coverage have been made available, can tell their story more than adequately.

Another Dividend Is Declared By Atlas Federal

At the semi-annual meeting of the directors of the Atlas Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pasadena held June 13, the regular dividend at the rate of four per cent per annum was declared, payable July 1 on all savings and investment accounts of record June 10. This is the fourth consecutive dividend at the four per cent rate, thus maintaining this return to investors since organization.

The association's charter from the Federal Government was dated June 29, 1936, and its certificate for the insurance of all accounts to $5000 was issued by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation shortly thereafter.

F. L. Whitlock, secretary-treasurer, reports that during its first two years of operation the Atlas has enjoyed a steady growth both in savings accounts and home loans, the present assets being in excess of $300,000, and the prospects, both for new investment money and increased activity in home building being very evident at this time.

Bowl Of Rice Party Draws Over 200

Chinese Consul Predicts His Countrymen Will Eventually Defeat Japan

"No matter what happens to China, I am confident that final success will be ours." With these words of optimism and hope, T. K. Chang, Chinese consul in Los Angeles, principal speaker at the "Bowl of Rice" dinner held June 16 at the Woman's clubhouse, expressed the sentiment of about two hundred people present.

The dinner and entertainment which followed was held under the auspices of the United Council for Civilian Relief in China to raise funds for war victims. Chinese cafes of Pasadena donated food for the dinner. Dr. J. Earl Gossard, chairman of the local committee, who spent five years as physician at Fukien Christian University at Fuchow, contributed the rice and Mrs. Gossard directed the serving of the Chinese meal, which was in charge of Miss Yang Ling-fu of Berkeley.

Consul Chang, who was introduced by Perley Poore Sheehan, master of ceremonies, told of China's looking toward America for help in distressing times and expressed appreciation for funds raised through the Rice Bowl parties.

A description of child welfare work and general missionary duties in China was given by Dr. J. R. Saunders of Kwang Tung. Col. H. B. Hersey expressed belief that Americans should refuse to spend a dollar in Japan as long as there are Japanese soldiers in China. Councilman Paul Carter extended sympathy to Chinese sufferers.

A program of dances and tableaux which followed the dinner delighted the audience. Pupils of Prof. Ivan Karioff participating were Betty Jean Askew, Betty Steward, Jacinta Kenny, Yvonne Mullino, Nancy Welch, Mary Lou Lovejoy, Carla Thayer.

Elisbeth Jackson, Georgyne Norris, Harry Lovejoy, Lois Kennedy, Betty Bye, all of Sierra Madre; and Bobby McCaslin and Victoria Chakarian of Pasadena.

A demonstration in bandaging was given by Dr. Gossard's daughter, Mrs. Rulon Smith of Taft as Miss Model America. Gen. Shiao, small son of Lieut. Gen. Shuan Shiao, military attaché to the embassy at Tokio until the beginning of the undeclared war, was the patient.

nounce Schedule

Four more cities will be added to the league, Arcadia and Monrovia being probable members.

The schedule for the first half of the city league season ends July 20, the second half beginning July 25. Games arranged for the first half follow:

George A. Newell, Jr., State head of the Republican Assembly, will be guest of honor at a banquet sponsored by the members of the 48th Republican Assembly to be given at the Altadena Golf Club at 6:30 next Tuesday evening. Carl Hinshaw, Republican candidate for Congress from the 11th District, and T. Fenton Knight, the party's choice for Assemblyman from the 48th Assembly district, will be on the speaker's program.

Over 700 programs have been mailed out to prominent citizens throughout the district, and reservations for the banquet already received indicate a large attendance. The list of guests will not be limited to those who receive written notice of the meeting, but is open to the public.

City Compromises Gierlich Suit For $2250

A compromise has been affected in the suit of former City Engineer Henry Gierlich against the city for $14,275, claimed as fees for services rendered by him in the Central avenue extension plans he drew but which were never used. The services were rendered prior to 1932. City Council Wednesday voted Mr. Gierlich, and the Monrovia bank acting as assignee, $2,250 to wipe the claim off the books and dismiss the suit which has been pending for three years.
